

Biodata: Melissa Latham Key & Danielle Swartzendruber

Melissa Latham Keh, Ed.D., is an associate professor at Bridgewater State University. She is a licensed teacher at the secondary level in the U.S. state of Massachusetts and has taught both English Language Arts and ESL at the high school level. Currently, she teaches graduate-level teacher preparation courses on the topics of instruction and assessment of multilingual learners as part of a master's degree program that prepares English language teachers. Her research has focused primarily on reading in a second language and heritage language maintenance.

Danielle Swartzendruber is an English as a Second Language (ESL) teacher in the state of Massachusetts in the U.S. She currently teaches ESL at the middle school level, and she has also worked with students in both ESL and Special Education for students with disabilities at the elementary school level. She is a licensed teacher of ESL for grades PreK-12 in the state of Massachusetts. She holds a Bachelor of Arts in English and a Master of Arts in Teaching in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) from Bridgewater State University in Massachusetts.