

Biodata: Mariza G. Méndez López

Mariza G. Méndez López is an English as a foreign language associate professor at Universidad Veracruzana, where she is head of the ELT master's degree programme. She holds a PhD in Education from the University of Nottingham, UK. She is a member of the Mexican National Research System. Her areas of research are affective factors in foreign language learning and teacher professional development. She is the author of several articles in this area.