

Biodata: Izza Rahmatika Mukti, Diah Retno Widowati, Febti
Ismiatun, M. Faruq Ubaidillah

Izza Rahmatika Mukti graduated from the Department of English Language Education, Universitas Islam Malang, Indonesia. Her research interests focus on English Language Teaching (ELT), particularly reading strategies and reading comprehension among EFL learners. During her undergraduate studies, she actively engaged in research on language learning and literacy. She is currently working at Foreword Library, South Jakarta, Indonesia, where she contributes to educational and literacy initiatives. She is interested in promoting effective reading practices and supporting language learning through research-informed educational approaches.

Diah Retno Widowati is a lecturer in the Department of English Language Education, Universitas Islam Malang, Indonesia. She is currently pursuing a Ph.D. in Language and Literature Education at Universitas Negeri Surabaya, Indonesia. Her research interests include English Language Teaching (ELT), language education, teacher professional development, and curriculum studies. She has participated in national and international research and academic activities focusing on English language education. She is committed to advancing research and innovation in ELT through scholarly collaboration and publication.

Febti Ismiatun is a lecturer in the Department of English Language Education, Universitas Islam Malang, Indonesia. She is currently pursuing a Ph.D. in English Language Teaching at Universitas Negeri Malang, Indonesia. Her research interests include language learning strategies (LLSs), public speaking, English Language Teaching (ELT), and language learner development. She actively engages in research collaborations and has published her work in national and international academic journals. Her research primarily employs qualitative approaches to investigate language learning and teaching practices. Email:

M. Faruq Ubaidillah is a lecturer in the Department of English Language Education, Universitas Islam Malang, Indonesia, and a Visiting Lecturer at the Faculty of Languages and Linguistics, Universiti Malaya, Malaysia. In addition, he received MOFA Taiwan Fellowship as a visiting scholar at Taiwan's public universities from February to June 2026. His research focuses on language teacher identity, learner identity, Global Englishes, and multilingualism. He primarily employs narrative inquiry to examine identity construction and negotiation in global, multilingual, and digital contexts. Email: