

Biodata: Sujay Kumar Saha & Smriti Singh

Sujay Kumar Saha is a research scholar at the Indian Institute of Technology Patna, India, where he is pursuing his PhD in English language teaching. He also works as a teacher educator at District Institute of Education and Training Murshidabad, India. His areas of research interest are English language teaching, Indian writing in English, and Teacher education. In Murshidabad, India, he has also organized multiple government-sponsored teacher education programmes. He has presented different papers at a number of international conferences. He has also published papers in a number of international journals, including ELT vibes, Language in India and FORTELL.

Dr. Smriti Singh is an Associate Professor in the Department of Humanities and Social Sciences at Indian Institute of Technology Patna. Her areas of research interest are English language teaching, diaspora and Postcolonial Writings. She has published three books and numerous research papers in journals such as Teflin and Current Science. She conducts workshops and short term courses in language teaching, soft skills. She is a reviewer for many national and international journals of repute. Dr. Singh was former Fulbright at the University of Texas at Austin during 2005-06.