

Biodata: Liyan Zhang

I have been a part-time English coach for Chinese teenagers and their parents who encounter culture, behavior, and psychological shocks apart from language barriers when they live outside of their own culture. I am also an English therapist practitioner as well right now and I am glad to help people all around the world online. I plan to continue my MA study in 2022. Learning English has not only changed my life but transformed my life to be a spiritual one. English is a bond that connects me with God and teaches me there is no border within God's kingdom.
