The results are in alphabetical order using the next word to the left. There are words highlighted in different colours, to see those colours' meaning click on the help button (on the upper-left side of the screen)

You can decide how the entries in the Keyword in Context (KWIC) display are sorted, when you select ALPHABETICAL sorting. If you don't select anything, it will default to the three words to the right.

- 1 Sorts the entries by the three words to the left of the "node word(s)" (i.e. what is in the WORD(S) field of the search form).
- 2 Sorts the entries by the three words to the right of the node words.
- 3 You choose up to three "slots" to sort by. This can include the "node word" column, when you have different words in that slot.
- 4 Re-set the sorting options.

Note that clicking [SUBMIT] the search form will provide a new set of results, whereas clicking on [RE-SORT] in the KWIC window uses the same "results", but just re-sorts them in a new order.

Word Analysis

1. The first observation is that the word "miss" can be used as noun and as a verb.

", but added, "It would be a sin to miss this opportunity" (verb)

"Hold on one moment, please- Hi, Miss Acosta? -Yes- I 'm Dr. Lopez." (noun)

2. The second observation is that most of the time it is followed by a proper noun or by a pronoun.

3. The third observation is that when used as a verb, the word miss has two different meanings:

- To lose something/someone.

", but added, "It would be a sin to miss this opportunity" (verb)

- To regret the absence of someone/something

"I'm still in love with Stacy, and I miss her."
