

Biodata: José Yancarlos Mendoza

José Yancarlos Mendoza holds a Master's degree in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) from Minnesota State University, Mankato, and is a Fulbright Scholar passionate about education, cultural exchange, and global understanding. With over 13 years of experience teaching English language skills, he currently works at the elementary level and has also taught middle and high school students. His research focuses on vocabulary acquisition in English as a Foreign Language (EFL) context, specifically examining Panamanian elementary school teachers' perceptions and strategies for vocabulary learning. He combines academic research with practical classroom methods to support effective and engaging language learning.