

Biodata María Alcantud-Díaz & Betlem Soler Pardo

María Alcantud-Díaz has got a PhD in English Philology from the University of Valencia (UV), Spain. She is a Professor in at the Department of Didactics of Language and Literature of the Teacher Training Faculty (UV) where she is also the Vice Dean for Internationalization and Cooperation. She is the Director of the Cadre for Cooperation and Sustainable Development (of the people axis) at the University of Valencia. She is the founder of the TALIS research group (www.proyectotalis.com). Her research focuses on innovation in foreign languages learning by combining languages teaching, literary and intercultural education and Education for Sustainable Development and Global Citizenship.

Betlem Soler Pardo graduated in Catalan Philology and English Philology from the Universitat de València. She has many years of teaching experience in several UK universities: at the University of London (Queen Mary, University of London) where she obtained a Master's degree in Sociolinguistics in 2001, and at the University of Oxford where she taught Spanish in the Hispanic Philology degree programme from 2003 to 2006. Regarding research, since 2010 she joined the Department of Didactics and has been part of several research projects. Her doctoral thesis and the works and research generated from it deal with aspects related to cinematography and audiovisual translation.