

Biodata: Ferlya Elyza, Sugirin, Fikri Yanda

Ferlya Elyza is a faculty member at the English Education Program, Faculty of Teacher Training and Education, Universitas Abulyatama, Aceh, Indonesia. Her teaching experiences are in Writing, Seminar on English Language Teaching and Teaching English as a Foreign Language. Graduated Doctoral Degree from State University of Yogyakarta in 2022, she has interested in investigating students' skill in writing and also exploring students' literacy skill.

Sugirin obtained his Sarjana degree in English Language and Literature from IKIP Yogyakarta in 1983, MA in TESOL in 1995 and Ph.D in Education in 2002, both from Deakin University, Melbourne. Starting his career as a lecturer of IKIP Yogyakarta (now Universitas Negeri Yogyakarta) in 1984, he was inaugurated as Professor in English Language Teaching in 2013. Other than teaching, researching, and doing community service, he served as Head of the Office of International Links (2002-2010), Coordinator of PhD Program in Language Education (2013-2019), Team member of some national programs, authors, co-authors, and reviewers of both national and international journals.

Fikri Yanda is a researcher of the Indonesian Researchers for Language Learning and Teaching (iRecall) based in Surabaya, Indonesia. He has published numerous scholarly articles in respectable journals, such as Journal of Education for Teaching, System, Educational Philosophy and Theory, Asian Studies Review, and Educational Action Research. His interdisciplinary research interests include education and teacher education.