

Biodata: Son Van Nguyen & Anita Habók

Son Van Nguyen works as a foreign language instructor at Thuyloi University, Hanoi, Vietnam. He obtained his Bachelor's degree in English language teaching at University of Languages and International Studies, Vietnam National University in 2015. He was awarded Master's degree in TESOL by Victoria University, Australia in 2017. He achieved his Ph.D in educational sciences at University of Szeged, Hungary in 2022. His research interests focus on professional development, ELT methodology, learner autonomy, metacognition, motivation, and teachers' as well as students' perceptions. He has published his articles in Heliyon, Language Learning in Higher Education, Education Sciences, Electronic Journal of Foreign Language Teaching, MEXTESOL, and RELAY. He also presented his work at international as well as national conferences such as AsiaCALL and VietTESOL.

Anita Habók is an Associate Professor at the Institute of Education, University of Szeged, Hungary. She is also a member of the MTA-SZTE Digital Learning Technologies Research Group. She earned her PhD and habilitation in Education. Her research interests include self-regulated learning, foreign language learning strategies, vocabulary learning, reading strategies and reading comprehension.