

Biodata: Cemil Gökhan Karacan, Merve Yıldız, Derin Atay

Cemil Gökhan Karacan is a research assistant in English Language Teaching department at Istanbul Medipol University. He is a Ph.D. candidate in the English Language Teaching program at Bahçesehir University. His research interests include pre-service language teacher education and teacher digital competence. Being a technology enthusiast, he is deeply interested in technology-assisted language education and specifically augmented reality for language learning and teaching. He also published several research studies related to but not limited to technology.

Merve Yıldız is currently an instructor at the school of foreign languages in Sakarya University of Applied Sciences, Turkey. She is also a Ph.D. student in ELT department, Bahçesehir University. Her research interests primarily include language policies, bilingual education, content-based language learning and teaching, individual differences in language learning as well as language teacher education. She has co-authored several articles and presented in international conferences about the aforementioned research areas.

Derin Atay is a professor of Applied Linguistics in the Faculty of Educational Sciences of Bahçesehir University. Her career in education spans 30 years, teaching and doing research in the areas of pre- and in-service teacher education, integration of 21st century skills, active learning, and global citizenship in education, student engagement in online education and multicultural language education. She has articles in the indexed journals, book chapters and projects on various aspects of education and language education and has offered professional development seminars to teachers all over Turkey.