

Biodata: Mohammad Hossein Keshavarz & Avishan Keshavarz

Mohammad Hossein Keshavarz is professor of Applied Linguistics and Head of ELT Department at Girne American University in North Cyprus. He has published widely in refereed journals including International Journal of Applied Linguistics, TESOL Journal, Language in Society, International Journal of the Sociology of Language, Journal of Psycholinguistic Research, International Journal of Bilingualism, Reading in a Foreign Language, and Communication Disorders Quarterly. He is also the author of a number of books on Linguistic and TEFL issues. His research interests include First and Second Language Acquisition, Sociolinguistics, Contrastive and Error Analysis, and Pragmatics.

Avishan Keshavarz holds a BA in English Translation and an MA in English Language Teaching. She has taught English as a second language since 1998, using Cambridge and Oxford course books, and has been an English senior instructor teaching undergraduate ELT courses. She has also been a primary school teacher since 2012 at international primary schools owing to her keen interest in the education of young learners. Her research interests include Second Language Acquisition, Linguistics, and Pronunciation.