

Biodata: Rema Alkilani, Paramaswari Jaganathan, & Sabariah Abd. Rahimi

Rema Alkilani is an English language educator with over two decades of professional experience. She holds a Higher Diploma in English Language from Libya, a M.A (TESOL) from Victoria University, Australia, and a Ph.D. from Universiti Sains Malaysia. Dr. Rema specializes in teaching English as a Second Language (TESL). Her interest lies in interdisciplinary research, particularly in applied linguistics and pragmatics. She has spearheaded numerous educational programs and activities, showcasing her dedication in the field of education.

Paramaswari Jaganathan is a senior lecturer in the School of Languages, Literacies and Translation, USM. She has a Certificate of Education (TESL), B.A.(Hons.) in Translation and Interpretation, M.A.(Comm.) and Ph.D. from USM. Her area of specialization includes teaching English as a Second Language (TESL), Media Discourse and Translation studies. She has experience teaching at both B.A. and M.A. levels. Her area of interest lies in interdisciplinary research that involves applied linguistics and pragmatics.

Sabariah Abd. Rahim is a lecturer in the English Language Unit, Centre for the Promotion of Knowledge and Language, Universiti Malaysia Sabah (UMS). Her research interest is in Second Language Learning and Composition Studies mainly focusing in Corrective Feedback and Second Language Writing.