

Biodata: Ana María Becerra Resendiz and Jesús Izquierdo

Ana María Becerra Resendiz has been an EFL teacher in Veracruz, Mexico for more than 10 years. She holds a BA in English Language from Universidad Veracruzana and a MA in Applied Linguistics in ELT from Universidad de Guanajuato. Pursuing her MA degree, she was granted a CONAHCYT scholarship and graduated Cum Laude. Currently she teaches at a public high school in Teocelo, Veracruz. Throughout her career, she has presented her work at various national and international academic conferences and seminars. Her research interests include blended instruction, second language pedagogy, mentorship, peer mentorship, and teacher development.

Jesús Izquierdo held a PhD in Second Language Education from McGill University, Canada. He was a full-time professor at Universidad Juárez Autónoma de Tabasco where he taught undergraduate and graduate courses. He was also a member of Sistema Nacional de Investigadores (CONAHCYT). As a teacher educator, Professor Izquierdo supervised various undergraduate and graduate students from diverse national and international programs of distinguished universities. His research focused on second language acquisition, technology-enhanced second language education, second/foreign language policy, and quantitative research in second language education. He published extensively across numerous peer-reviewed journals, collaborated on refereed book chapters and book reviews.